Dear Sir,

I am writing to advise I believe the moratorium on genetically modified crops should be extended until at least 2013. As a biologist I know there is no scientifically proven way of restricting GM crops from genetically unmodified crops. Until this occurs GM crops pose a threat to our export markets that require our crops to be GM free.

Until the long term effects of genetic manipulation on food are proven it is imperative that they are not inadvertently released into the community and the environment.

I look forward to hearing the outcome of this review.

Yours sincerely

Jodi Kirkby
