

MARK IMHOF

Mark Imhof has worked with DPI and its predecessors for 25 years and in that time has been involved in numerous soil and land survey and assessment studies and also delved into GIS and remote sensing. Mark has managed the development of the Victorian Resources Online (VRO) website since 1997 – providing a range of natural resources information products relevant to Victoria. Mark is also currently managing a Soil Health project, a landscape assessment project for the CRC for Plant-Based Management of Dryland Salinity and has been representing Victoria on the National Committee on Soil and Terrain for the past 10 years. Mark enjoys working in soil pits and has led the characterisation of some 800 pit sites across Victoria in the past 14 years.
